SC Foreign Students from South Investigate, Adapt to Surroundings

NORTHWEST MISSOURI STATE COLLEGE

Coeds From Afar

Carmen Chang from Panama, who attended NWMSC last spring, shows Zarina Moncayo from Mexico the entrance sign to the campus.

The song title "South of the Border" has special meaning to Carmen Chang and Zarina Moncayo, two of the 14 students from other countries attending Northwest Missouri State this semester.

Miss Chang, a native of Panama, has been in the United States about nine months. She attended classes here last spring and enrolled at the University of Kansas during the summer. Although she is undecided about her major, she feels that English is a possibility. Whatever she decides, her plans include returning to teach in Panama.

At home in Panama City, Miss Chang has two sisters and one brother. Her father is a professor at the University of Panama, and her mother is a high school teacher.

Miss Chang has always wanted to come to America. When it came time for her to choose her college, she decided to take her opportunity. She selected five small colleges and then pointed to one saying she would go there. That one was NWMSC. Now she likes it so much that she plans to finish her education. The only thing she does not like is the American dish, gravy.

Miss Moncayo just recently arrived in the United States from Culiacan, Mexico. She is a private accountant, having finished college in Mexico at Regio Montferrant. She has received an academic scholarship through the Institute for International Education for special study at NWMSC to concentrate on English and also Spanish to students in the Mann School.

Future plans for Zarina Moncayo include returning to her native country, where she plans to work in the business field.

Miss Moncayo says her father might be called a farmer though they live in a city of 100 population. He owns a small farm and sells his produce to the United States' markets. Her one brother lives in Los Angeles.

Forensic Students Enter Competition At Omaha Kick-off

Forensic students left this morning to compete in debate, discussion, extemporaneous speaking, and original oratory at the Omaha University Kick-off Tournament.

Women entered in two rounds of original oratory are Linda Brinton, Minutemen; Jerelynn Davis, television advertising; Gail Halliday, noninvolvement in Viet Nam, and Marjorie Hitchcock, reporting crime news.

Ruth Martin, Miss Davis, Miss Hitchcock, Loring Miller, and Jim Hulse are entered in discussion. They will be concerned with the national question: What should be the United States' policy in Red China?

Varsity debaters who will switch sides in five rounds of competition are Halliday-Brinton and Ron Walter-Ron Wineinger. Milton Brod-Hulse, Linda Hornaday-Terry Lutz, affirmative, and Cheri Jarowitz-Dennis Gore, Miss Davis-Scott Hodgkin, negative, will be involved in four rounds of junior debate.

Women entered in extemporaneous speaking are Miss Hornaday, Miss Lutz, Miss Jarowitz, and Miss Martin. Brod, Gore, Walter, and Wineinger are entered in men's extempore speaking.

Novice debaters Jarowitz-Gore won three of their four rounds of debate at the Kansas State University, Manhattan, tournament last weekend to bring their average to 71 per cent wins. Brod - Hulse and Davis - Hodgkin won half their rounds and Miller - Martin had one victory in their first tournament.

AWS to Meet Tonight

The Rev. Howard Judah, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be guest speaker at an Associated Women Students mass meeting at 7:30 p. m., tonight in the Rose Room of the J. W. Jones Union. Questions will be answered after his speech.

All women on campus are urged to attend, according to Kay Elder, president.

KDLX ON AIR

KDLX will be on the air Sunday in Hudson, Perrin, and Roberta Halls, according to Rollie Stadlman, program director.

Associated Women Students To Present Fashion Revue

"Terminals for Fashion" is the theme for the AWS style show to be held in Charles Johnson Theater at 8 p. m. Nov. 15.

Associated Women Students present a fashion show annually to give NWMSC freshmen some examples of campus styles. All freshman women will be admitted free.

DeAnn Bowers, over-all chairman of the exhibition, reported, "This year the style show should be especially good because of the ideal setting."

Other committee chairmen are Kathy Smith, Mary Kay Ripley, Peggy Miller, Bev Barton, Helen Duvall, Phyllis Brown, Sandy Slater, Wendy Beam, Anne Morgan, Marjorie Hitchcock, Sheryl Gift, Gail Halliday, Marcia Hensleigh, Carol Ristau, JoAnne Montgomery, Carol Phillips, and Bev McKenzie.

Maryville merchants are sponsoring the show. They will give door prizes for both men and women.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for 25 cents.

To Inform the Public

Letting people know about Homecoming is the major responsibility of Peggy Wright, Chris Beal, Jim Beemer, and Bob Burrell.

Miss Wright is chairman of the signs and posters committee which makes all signs and banners requested by the general committee for Homecoming. Other members of the committee are Ed Wilson and Cathie Hansen.

Miss Beal is co-chairman of the Homecoming publicity committee. Her co-chairman is Jack Kelly and Peg Herron is a member. Taking care of all Homecoming publicity including newspaper, radio, and TV stories and advertising is this committee's duties.

Mr. Beemer and Mike Stephens are co-chairman of the campus decorations committee. Bob Burrell and Mary Massen are members of this committee which makes plans for the decoration of the campus and sees that these decorations are put up and taken down. The committee takes an inventory of what is available to be used and tries to add at least one new contribution.

Students Invited To Study 'Peanuts'

One of the most influential philosophies sweeping the country, the "Philosophy of Peanuts," is being studied on campus.

At a meeting at 4:30 p. m. each Tuesday in the UCCF — Wesley Foundation, the Rev. Raymond Gass will conduct sessions titled "Meet Peanuts."

The comic strip "Peanuts" and the college students "fifth gospel," The Gospel According to Peanuts, are being used as the groundwork for discussion. This is a contemporary study group open to anyone interested.

Folk Singers to Meet

The Folk-Song Club will have an organizational meeting at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, in the Upper Lakeview Room of the Union Building, according to Stewart Lewis, adviser.

The club held its first meetings last year.

Dr. Lemley Announces November Deadline For Student Teaching

According to Dr. Charles R. Lemley, director of student teachers, applications for second semester student teaching should be made between Nov. 1 and Nov. 15.

Applicants should obtain and complete two copies of the application form, which can be acquired from Dr. Lemley or the Registrar's office. The applications should be returned to Dr. Lemley's office, Room 105 D, Colden Hall.

A personal conference with Dr. Lemley is also required before students can begin teaching.

Weekend to Include Two Movie Features

Marlon Brando, Karl Malden, Pina Pennicer, and Katy Jurado star in tonight's Den movie.

The lust for revenge has built up for five years in Johny Rio while imprisoned in the rat-infested Sonora jail. When he escapes, he sets out to find Dad Longworth, his partner who betrayed him to the Mexican police. The discovery that Longworth now has a wife and beautiful step-daughter widens his plan for vengeance and leads to an explosive climax as the two men come to an inevitable showdown.

"The Red Badge of Courage," starring Audie Murphy, Bill Mauldin, Douglas Dick, and Royal Dano, will be shown tomorrow night.

Audie Murphy and his regiment are nervous and jittery before their first battle of the Civil War. When the actual battle begins, Murphy breaks ranks and runs for his life.

Later he meets his comrades coming back from the battle; they had not noticed he had deserted.

Delta Zeta Actives

Put Pledges to Work

Delta Zeta members, Linda Chappell and Sheila Schieber, front, never had it so good! Members of the sorority's pledge class helped moved the two senior vocational home economics girls to the Home Management House Sunday. Pledges are as follows: Jan Roberts, Gloria Hansen, Janice Baal, Helen Duncan, Bobbi Dague, Rose Mary Cole, Linda Gray, Sharon Steele, Kathy Wharton, Carole Fields, Paula Christensen, and Sandra Hollebrand. The Delta Zeta pledge class, with 27 members, is the largest pledge class on campus.

Brandywines Plan Singing To Suit Their Audiences

By Doug Dickinson

The Brandywine Singers, who were featured in concert by the Union Board last Friday night, find joy in pleasing their fans.

The quartet sang several show tunes and songs of folk origin. Their music is arranged by Nilt Okun, who also directs Peter, Paul and Mary; The Brothers Four, and The Mitchell Trio. Actually, they report that they enjoy doing anything that appeals to them and their audiences.

Members of the group are Ron Shaw, guitar; Jay Christopher, guitar and comedian; Les Clark, tenor; and Devin Terrison, guitar. They formed their group at the University of New Hampshire, where they all were students. After several changes, the present Brandywine Singers have been together for two years.

When asked how they stand with the draft, Ron replied, "I'm afraid Uncle Sam is going to take his hand out of his pocket and lay it on my shoulder." The other three have deferments. Both Les and Ron are married while Devin and Jay are single in the matrimonial department.

The large group of students who attended indicated by their applause that a hearty thank-you should be extended to the Union Board for sponsoring entertainment such as The Brandywine Singers.

Greek Groups to Enact Variety Show Number

"The World of Song" will provide the theme for a colorful entertainment at the two-night Homecoming variety show Nov. 3 and 4, with six Greek organizations scheduled to present the main part of the program in this year's show.

Sororities represented in the show will be Alpha Sigma Alpha, Sigma Sigma Sigma, Delta Zeta, and Phi Mu. Two fraternities participating in the presentation will be Delta Sigma Phi and Phi Sigma Epsilon. Topics for the various skits range from "Northwest Side Story" to an act based on Cinderella.

This year the committee plans something different in that the programs given out introducing the acts will be as much a part of the show as the skits. Cards will also be on the stage to introduce the performers, giving the show a vaudeville slant.

On Friday, Nov. 4, after the last performance, the Homecoming Queen will be crowned. Also at the Homecoming dance, prizes will be given to the students presenting the best acts in the show. Prizes, consisting of plaques and cash awards, will be presented to the first places in the sorority division and the first five places in the fraternity division.

Since, in this year's program, there will be no master of ceremonies, individual acts will form during set changes. Acts will include tap dancing, folk singers, folk dancers, possibly the Tower Choir. Directors Kerry Lafferty, George Hinshaw, members of the Department of Speech, will work with each group to help them perfect their acts.

All nine Greek organizations on campus tried out in the eliminations held Oct. 19. Independent groups entered the competition.

UCCF-Wesley Groups Combine in Ecumenical Youth Movement

Signpost Symbolizes Ecumenical Movement

United Christian Campus Fellowship Wesley Foundation has become a reality this year.

This cooperative program uniting the UCCF, which is supported by the Christian, Presbyterian, Congregational, Church of Christ, and Evangelical United Brethren churches, and the Wesley Foundation, which is sponsored by the Methodist Church, has become one body for common witness and ministry to the campus.

According to the Rev. Ray Gass, campus minister, "The Fellowship is designed to make a more intensified ministry to the college student. We are eager to make his years here fruitful and meaningful. No education is complete without Christian learning and fellowship, which we believe the UCCF-Wesley Fellowship offers."

UCCF-Wesley Fellowship has combined all phases of both previous programs. Officers from both groups will work jointly on the program and activities for the year. Activities center around the Wesley Foundation Student Center at the main entrance of the campus, which is open every day for anyone wishing to make use of it.

Playing ping-pong, listening to the stereo, playing the piano and studying are among the informal activities available. In addition, the library, with selections of periodicals and books, is there to be used. A kitchen is available for snacks, and usually Mr. Gass is there ready to listen to any problems.

On the weekly schedule one will find a discussion class and coffee hour at 9 a. m. on Sunday mornings, after which transportation will be provided to the Christian, Presbyterian, and Methodist churches. Sundays at 5:30 p. m. a fellowship meal, costing 40 cents per person, is followed by a college forum. Those wishing to specialize will find outlets for their talents in the Fellowship Players, Folk Singers, Folk Dancers, or "Peanuts" students.

Plans are now being made for Homecoming activities and the opening of a coffee house after Homecoming. The fellowship has also entered into a film study series with the Catholic Newman Club. Ten popular movies will be shown during the semester. Each movie will be discussed as to its appeals, technical aspects, and basic theme. Publication of a monthly newspaper, The Cutting Edge, is intended to promote controversy and thought, leading toward action.

In giving her reactions to the merger, Sandy Slater, president of the UCCF, pointed out, "We of the UCCF are proud to join with the Wesley Foundation this year in an ecumenical experiment. We have made a good start, and we hope that our combined efforts will succeed."

Wesley President Larry White echoes Sandy's feelings: "I believe that the uniting of the UCCF and Wesley Foundation will improve both organizations by bringing new insights and a better understanding of the ecumenical movement. We as one group can consolidate our abilities to better reach the goals for which we strive."

Leaders hope that this ecumenical movement will promote a broader and more active fellowship for the approximately 2,000 UCCF and Wesley preference students on the campus.

Campus Fraternities Announce Pledging of 50 Upperclassmen

Following Rush Week activities, 50 upper classmen became pledges in the five campus social fraternities.

The fraternities and their respective pledges are, Sigma Tau Gamma — Jim Karpowich, Dick Leasenby, Dave Modier, Bob Schilling, Joe Spinelio, Ted West, and Mike Peterson.

Phi Sigma Epsilon — Roy Balbort, Joe Caraway, Duane Hohensee, William O'Riley, Constantine Thomas, Ralph Wilson, and Robert Wood.

Alpha Kappa Lambda — David Hill, John Braden, Allan Link, Laverne Arndt, Kenneth Griggs, Dennis Hilger, Roger Calson, Larry Fouts, Jim Sterner, Larry Wilson, Charles Combs, and Paul Sparks.

Sophomore Traces Ancestry to Burns

To most of the students at Northwest Missouri State College, the era of the Scotch poet Robert Burns is merely one of past English history.

But to Jeanne Keller, sophomore, it is quite a different story because she is able to trace her ancestry to Burns. When asked her opinion of her famous forefather and his works, she replied that she was "intrigued by his use of dialect, which is reminiscent of his time."

Because of the hard life that he led, Miss Keller thinks that Burns was keenly aware of the sufferings of his people. She believes that he reveals this by using the language of the Scotch peasantry in many of his poems.

Miss Keller feels that "To a Mouse," her favorite poem by Burns, is quite indicative of his type and style of writing.

MSC Representatives Attend 2-State Meet

Miss Karen Licklider, dean of women, and nine NWMSC women students attended a Kansas - Missouri Bi - State Convention at Pittsburg, Kas., Oct. 21 and 22.

NWMSC representatives led a panel discussion on college rules and regulations for women. The overall theme of the convention was "What Is Your Personal Target?"

Coeds attending were Judy Palumbo, Sondra Biggs, Diana Schreiber, Melody Price, Pam Potter, Kay Saville, Barbara Letzig, Lola Auxier, and Kay Elder.

Agriculture Club Plans Homecoming Activities

The Agriculture Club has planned its portion of the Homecoming activities.

An annual jalopy construction project is again the main interest in the farm shop. The assigned committee has acquired an early model Plymouth that will be returned to the junk yard, in the form of a "modified heap."

Alumni Report

Jack R. Moore, '56, Knoxville, Iowa, has accepted the position of director of music therapy department at the Wheatridge Home and Training School, Denver, Colo.

He is president-elect of the National Association of Music Therapy, Midwest Region. He is a member of the national public relations committee and is public relations chairman of a 10-state public relations committee.

Charles Arms, '66, left Friday for San Antonio, Tex., where he will be stationed for 90 days' officers' training.

Upon completion of the course, he will receive 18 months' pilot training. His wife, Teresa, is a senior at NWMSC.

'Dialogue' Asks:

Union Director Gives Answers

What do students feel the major problems—at NWMSC are? Are there answers to these problems? Dialogue is seeking such questions and answers.

"Dialogue" is a group of students who meet each week and discuss various campus problems among themselves and with NWMSC administrators and staff. The group is working to correct problems which students feel are a stumbling block to a well-rounded education at NWMSC. By publishing the answers to some of the students' questions, we hope to enlighten them on the whys and wherefores of various campus problems.

"Dialogue" recently met with Dan Greer, director of the Student Union, to discuss students' questions concerning various Union policies.

Students have questioned the closing of the "old den" at 7 p. m. each evening. Mr. Greer stated that it is necessary to close the "old den" at this hour in order to clean it, as he feels the den should be kept as clean as possible. If the "old den" stayed open after 7 p. m., it would be necessary to hire a night janitor to clean it, and this would involve many complications.

With the closing of the "old den" to business in the evening, Mr. Greer plans to use it for mixers. If the noise of the mixers is moved to the "old den," students may use the Rose Room and surrounding rooms for meetings without interruption. The Union Board also plans to use the "old den" for bridge tournaments and other activities later on.

Mr. Greer stated that paging over the public address system in the Union will be used only for emergency telephone calls. The system will also be used for broadcasting events which will be of interest to the campus.

Price changes have been made only from necessity. Food prices are rising and the Union must at least try to break even. Mr. Greer stated that food prices at NWMSC's Union are somewhat lower than those on many other campuses.

Mr. Greer also told the group about some of the new services and facilities that will be available after the addition to the Union is completed in March. There will be more rooms available for meetings and also rooms for office space. There will be a barbershop, craft shop, and photography shop. For students' recreation, there will be bowling lanes and a billiard room.

Members of "Dialogue" and the organizations they represent are Rollic Stadlman, KDLX; Dianna Brown, Cardinal Key; Diane Kramer, Panhellenic Council; Jon McAvoy, GDI; Fred Lazear, Inter-Fraternity Council; Kay Elder, Associated Women Students; David Wassenfallen, Men's Residence Hall Council; Nick Erganian, Student Senate; Don Robbins, Blue Key; Joe Logan, Union Board, and Peg Herron, Northwest Missourian. Miss Karen Licklider is the group's sponsor.

Students Comment

On More Formal Dress Regulations

Editor's note: This is the third of a series of articles examining student opinion on campus. The opinions expressed are in no way the opinions of the Missourian, the faculty, or the administration. We welcome letters to the editor commenting on this series.

This week the question posed was: "What do you think about the trend to more formal dress on campus? Also, what are your opinions on dress regulations for the classroom, dinner, and girls wearing shorts to class?"

"I feel no one should tell you what to wear, just as long as you provide a neat, good-looking overall appearance. I really don't believe there is a trend to formal dress, and I think this is good.

"I do think a person should dress neatly for classes, but I don't see anything wrong with wearing an MSC shirt to eat in. Personally, I like the idea of dressing up to eat Sunday. It makes you feel good and you make a good impression on everyone.

"As far as girls wearing shorts, I think it's fine in the summer when it's hot. A person must be comfortable to study and absorb anything in lecture, and girls are surely more comfortable in shorts.

—Bill Hanson, freshman

"As far as formal dress is concerned, I don't think there should be any. We should dress just the way we do now, casual. Otherwise the expenses would be too high. Another thing: It's awfully hard to sit through four hours of lecture and get anything out of it wearing a tie.

"The dress regulations here are fine the way they are now. It doesn't hurt to be dressed fairly nice once in awhile. Shorts are a big question on most campuses. In the summer shorts should be allowed for both boys and girls. When it is hot, shorts are more comfortable and you can't concentrate in a hot classroom."

There is no way to tell someone to dress formal everyday. A person looks better, but I think it is up to the individual to set his own standards of dress.

"No one should go to extremes either way on dress regulations. If a person is clean and decently dressed, there shouldn't be anything wrong with his eating in our cafeteria.

If a student pays for the meal, he should be able to eat in anything, just as long as it's decent. I don't think girls should wear shorts to class. It shows disregard to the instructors and the male student."

—Jim Giffin, junior

"I don't think there is a so-called trend to formal dress on this campus. Formal dress means a shirt, slacks, tie, and sweater or coat. This would be too expensive for the average student to keep his wardrobe up and keep it clean.

"The dress regulations are fine now except for not being able to wear a sweat-shirt to supper. Girls should not be allowed to wear shorts to class. It shows disrespect for the instructor and is detrimental to the over-all impression and morale of the school."

—Lowell Ranek, senior

Several girls' opinion on dress regulations at NWMSC will appear in the next Northwest Missourian.

Campus Comments

By Dale Grosuch

This week I plan to devote this column to the question: "What is a college student?"

It seems no other sociological group is so often misunderstood or so THEY say; as the great American institution: the student. A student is an individual who can read Henry Miller and get some great lesson of our times from among the four-letter words and otherwise smutty material. He is one who can read Plato, and find that he says nothing applicable to today. A student is one who can listen to the Beatles and become "inspired," but who misses the simple and intricate beauty of a Beethoven symphony.

Why are students such as they are? Who can say? Perhaps, somewhere the words education and student have become disassociated.

This is not to say that there are not a great many students who are serious students in every sense of the word, but why are these individuals scorned, mocked, and burned at the stake of collegiate society?

I certainly am not advocating that all students should constantly walk around in a daze, searching for the inevitable truth as did Diogenes, for he never found his honest man, as I have never found a truly honest student.

Why not reread this column (providing you have not ripped it up by this point, proclaiming it another of the inroads being taken by the Communist youth corrupters into American life and think of exactly what it says. It is not funny, stylish, popular, nor will it aid you in your love life, but it may make you think — it might.

"The Athenians do not mind a man being clever, as long as he keeps it to himself."

—Plato

Spirit Is Born Not Made

Get some spirit! Before one can acquire anything, must understand what he's seeking. What is spirit?

To an individual, spirit is no more than an avid appreciation of an object or organization which seems to be worthwhile projection of his personality. Group spirit, as is physically displayed, is merely a frenzy unless each member of the group is empathic. The expression of spirit therefore, does not necessarily take the form of a wild state. Spirit is spontaneous and free-willed. Forced spirit becomes a pseudo-spirit which drives actual appreciation in near-oblivion. There is, then, a pleasant mediocrity spirit.

School spirit is perhaps one of the most diverse types spirit: it may be expressed in many ways. It is reflected a smile, an encouraging word, a healthy scholastic attitude and an enduring academic quality. Through these media build and improve the institution which we, thereby, appreciate. The broader the scope of that institution, the more versatile and useful our appreciation will be.

As students working in and through many progressive programs, we attain a state of spirit sincerity which comes absolute in our personalities. Then it is no longer effort to take a genuine interest in extra-curricular activities, to behave in a becoming collegiate manner, and radiate a bona fide appreciation that proudly proclaims "We've got spirit."

Enlarged Science, Mathematics Faculty Keeps Pace with Increased Enrollment

Newcomers Teach Math, Science

When classes began this semester, eight new faculty members of the Science and Mathematics Division, all with interesting hobbies, assumed their teaching duties at NWMSC.

Four of the instructors, Ronnie Moss, Maurice Dahmus, Richard Beeson, and Richard Kratzer, are in the mathematics department.

Mr. Moss, who hails from Norman, Okla., finds teaching here somewhat of a family affair. He teaches classes in calculus, linear algebra, Mathematics 3, and Mathematics 10, while his wife, Janet, is affiliated with the Physical Education Department here. Mr. Moss received his master's degree with specialization in statistics at Oklahoma University and has been teaching for six years.

Prior to coming to the campus here, he taught statistics and computer science at the University of Oklahoma for two years. His favorite pastime is amateur radio.

A veteran instructor with 19 years experience, Maurice Dahmus has taught in North Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, and Arkansas. He gained his master's degree at the University of North Dakota and is presently working on a doctorate in mathematics education at the University of Arkansas.

At MSC, he directs classes in matrices, algebra, and trigonometry. He and his wife, Ruth, have 10 children, the youngest of whom is in the second grade. A native of the Midwest, Mr. Dahmus calls west central Illinois his home.

A native of Salina, Kas., Richard Kratzer received his master's degree at Kansas State College. Prior to teaching at Northwest Missouri State, he taught at Larnad, Kas., High School. Presently he instructs students in calculus, mathematics foundations, and Mathematics 30.

He and his wife, Sandra, have four children. Mr. Kratzer's favorite pastimes include playing golf and watching athletic contests.

Richard Beeson taught in high school three years before he started teaching classes in modern abstract algebra, trigonometry, and analytical geometry at MSC. He earned his master's degree at Arkansas State College and has completed one year of graduate work at the University of Arkansas.

Mr. Beeson, whose home town is Fayetteville, Ark., enjoys hunting, fishing, and watching football games. He and his wife, Valerie, and their toy poodle reside in St. Joseph.

Two new teachers in the biology department are David Smith and Frank McHan.

Mr. Smith, a bachelor, has begun the first year of his teaching career at NWMSC. He gained his master's degree in zoology with specialization in embryology at Kansas State University. His classes here consist of general zoology and comparative anatomy.

Mr. Smith, who grew up in Shelbyville, Ill., is an alumnus and sponsor of Delta Sigma Phi. He likes to compete in water sports and has one pet, a Great Dane.

Residing in Missouri for the first time is Frank McHan, whose hometown is Monticello, Ark. He and his wife, Joan, like Missouri and find its autumn scenery and weather similar to that of their home state.

Mr. McHan gained his doctorate in microbiology at the University of Arkansas and taught there prior to moving to Maryville. He teaches courses in microbiology, botany, and general biology.

In his spare time, he is an avid hunter and fisherman.

The chemistry department has only one new instructor, Dale Rosenberg, who worked as an industrial chemist in New Jersey before becoming a member of the college faculty. A native of Hannibal, he received his doctor's degree at the University of Missouri and now teaches general chemistry, elementary organic chemistry, and qualitative organic analysis.

Mr. Rosenberg, his wife, Peggy, their three children, two dogs, and a cat live on a small farm near Bolckow. He is interested in farming and music and is a member of the Singing Professors group on campus.

A recent addition to the physical science department is David Cargo from Denver.

Mr. Cargo acquired his master's degree at the University of Utah and worked as a geologist with an oil company before assuming his teaching duties at MSC. He presently instructs classes in geology and physical science.

An avid hiker, he once wrote a book on Rocky Mountain National Park. Mr. Cargo and his wife, Dee, have two children of pre-school age. The family has several pets including a German Shepherd, Siberian Huskie, and a Siamese cat.

These eight newcomers to the college faculty help Northwest Missouri State College to keep pace with increased enrollment in various science courses.

Weddings, Engagements

Shirley Faye Ingels, Maryville, and Thomas Eugene Kagay, Amity, were married Sept. 30 at the Pickering Christian Church. Mrs. Kagay is a senior and her husband is a graduate of NWMSC.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Emmons, Kansas City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kay, to Sgt. Ronald C. Brown, also of Kansas City.

Miss Emmons is majoring in sociology at NWMSC, and her fiancé, who is serving in the United States Marine Corps, is stationed in Santa Anna, Calif.

Miss Arceile Rowe, Bedford, Iowa, is engaged to Michael Joseph Combs, Parkville, Miss.

Rowe is a sophomore at NWMSC. Mr. Combs is a senior. They are both majoring in music education. The couple plans a June wedding.

Miss Donna McClain, Carlisle, Iowa, is engaged to John F. Oxley, St. Joseph. Miss McClain is a senior at NWMSC, majoring in home economics. Mr. Oxley, a former student here, is taking Army training at Ft. Leonard Wood.

Mrs. Nellye M. Kyle, Des Moines, Iowa, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Janet, to Dick Lesan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lesan, Ames, Iowa.

Miss Kyle is a junior at NWMSC majoring in elementary education. Mr. Lesan, a former NWMSC student, is employed by the Iowa State Highway Department.

Faculty Briefs

President Robert P. Foster, Dr. John Harr, Dr. Burton Richey, and H. R. Dieterich attended the annual Northwest Missouri State College alumni reception at the Fort Des Moines, Iowa, Hotel, from 3 to 5 p. m. last Friday.

John Barrett, '55, was host at the reception.

The annual NWMSC Denver alumni meeting will end today after a two-day gathering at the Olin Hotel, Denver. The highlight of the meeting was a buffet banquet, Thursday evening, which in turn was highlighted by a performance by the NWMSC Tower Choir and Progressive Jazz Group.

President Robert Foster and Everett W. Brown, Director of Field Services, were honored guests.

David A. Esterla, biology instructor at NWMSC, is the new president of the Missouri Audubon Society, which he has previously served as vice president.

Everett W. Brown, Field Service Director of NWMSC, was re-elected chairman of the Northwest Missouri Economic Opportunity Corporation at a recent meeting at the University of Missouri Extension Center, Maryville.

Mrs. T. H. Eckert, English and journalism instructor at NWMSC, flew to Beaumont, Tex., last weekend, where she gave the banquet address at the District III meeting of the South Central Region of Soroptimist Clubs.

The engagement of Miss Joyce Tuxhorn, Auburn, Neb., to Larry Matiyow, Roseville, Mich., has been announced.

Miss Tuxhorn is a junior majoring in elementary education and Mr. Matiyow is a junior majoring in industrial arts. He is a member of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity.

Chairman Announces PEM Award Winners

At a recent get-acquainted picnic at the College Park, the PEM Club scholarship award winners were announced by Miss Bonnie Magill, chairman of the Women's Physical Educational Department.

Those receiving the awards are Alberta Ueling, freshman; Bonnie Johnson, sophomore; Gano Whetstone, junior, and Rosalie Guyer, senior. Kathy Seifert, president, announced that the junior class had the best attendance last year.

The club voted to hold its annual Career Day Jan. 14.

Homecoming Tickets

Dr. LeRoy Crist, associate professor of Industrial Arts, has announced that tickets for the variety show and the Homecoming dance will be sold from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., Monday through Thursday, between the dens.

Dance tickets will be $2.50 in advance or $3 a couple at the door.

Physical Education Division Adds New Hygiene, Activity Instructors

Six new staff members have been hired to fill positions in the health, physical education, and recreation division according to Dr. Burton L. Richey, division director.

In addition to being in charge of swimming for women, Mrs. Barbara Bernard is teaching hygiene and activity courses. She received her AB from Franklin College at Franklin, Ind., and her MS from Kansas State Teachers College.

Mrs. Bernard taught at Junction City, Leavenworth, and Fort Leavenworth, Kas., before coming here. She was also an instructor in the Kumamoto, Japan, Dependent Schools.

Miss Jean Loveland has joined the staff as an instructor of hygiene and activity courses. Before coming to NWMSC, she was employed at Franklin College, Manchester College, and the University of Iowa. Miss Loveland received her BA from DePauw University and her MS from Indiana University.

Mrs. Janet Moss taught at Shawnee - Mission, Kas., West High School and the University of Oklahoma before joining the staff at NWMSC. She earned her BS from Oklahoma State University and her M. Ed from the University of Oklahoma. Her duties at NWMSC include instructing activity and anatomy and physiology classes and starting a gymnastic club.

Earl Baker has returned to Maryville after a leave of absence spent in Greeley, Colo., where he did graduate work. He is head track and assistant football coach in addition to teaching recreational and activity courses.

Coach Baker received his BS from Missouri Valley College and his master's from Northeast Missouri State Teachers College. Before coming to NWMSC in 1960, he held positions in the school systems at Hardin and Cameron.

Michigan native Roger Donnahoo taught at Melvindale High School in Detroit before accepting a position here as assistant football coach and hygiene and activity instructor. He received his BS from Michigan State, his MA from Eastern Michigan, and did graduate work at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Paul Gates, a graduate of NWMSC, has returned to the campus to become director of administration and intramurals and instructor of anatomy and physiology, tennis, and badminton.

Dr. Gates received his BS from NWMSC, his MA from Northwestern University and his Ed D from North Texas University and North Texas State. He previously taught in several Iowa communities, Slippery Rock State College in Pa., and Northwestern Military Academy at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Springfield to Host Bearcats Saturday In MIAA Game

Climbing back into the MIAA title race will be on every Bearcat's mind as they test Springfield in a rugged conference battle Saturday afternoon on the Bears' home field.

The 'Cats have not held the throne since 1952, sharing the honors with Kirksville. The greedy Bearcats proved they want the crown for themselves by upsetting the Bulldogs 24-21. But the tables were turned on the locals as they dropped a 24-21 heartbreaker to Cape Girardeau last Saturday.

Springfield rushers Ardie McCoy, Jay Cummings, and Mike Howell showed Kirksville fans Saturday that once close to pay-dirt they will not be denied six points, as the Bulldogs were handed their second straight defeat, 27-6.

The Bearcats can match their cross-state rivals with halfbacks Jim Blankenship, Joe Spinello. Quarterback Dan Orlovski has also proved to be a capable runner, while kicking specialist Mickey Thompson is another asset to the Bearcats.

Added to a murderous pass rush the 'Cats have defensive linebacker Lonny Hagan, tackle Ed Byron, and defensive ends Marshall Tonnie and

Isometric Course Provides Challenge

By Carl Voss

If you want a challenging physical education activity next semester that will put you in top physical condition, enroll in isometric and circuit training.

Isometric and circuit training, technically known as PE 20, is being offered for the first time on campus this semester. Instructor Jerry Landwer presently has 24 students in the course, designed to provide intense physical conditioning.

The basic advantage of the isometric program is that it takes little or no equipment and provides a method of conserving class time as a contraction is maintained for only 10 seconds. In the contraction, the muscle applies its force to a load which is not permitted to move.

But this program has a drawback in that isometrics does little for building muscular and cardi-respiratory endurance. Therefore, Coach Landwer has combined the 'iso' program with the circuit training plan.

Circuit training is a conditioning program that can alter the three training variables — load, repetition, and time — simultaneously. Other exercises such as isometric and weight programs are only load and repetition agonistics; running only uses the factors of time and repetition.

The circuit consists of 12 different exercises performed at separate stations for a prescribed number of repetitions and at a specified weight where necessary. The 12 exercises are squat thrust two-arm curl, leg machine drills, peg board workouts, sit-ups, two-arm press, rope jumping, chin jumps, bench press, bench step-ups, bent-over rowing, and running.

Once the participant has completed a circuit three times in less than 20 minutes, he moves to a more difficult circuit, where the repetitions have been increased.

Coach Landwer has drawn out six circuits with increasing difficulty: White one, two and three and Green one, two and three. After the student has completed 'Green three' for three times in less than 20 minutes, he makes an attempt to join the "Bearcat Club."

Those who join this club find the time to complete a circuit reduced and the weight and repetitions increased. Athletes who can complete the final circuit have reached utmost physical condition.

So far only Ron James, Jerry Mason, Al Packer, and several coaches have gotten to the third circuit, "White three." "To get that far," Landwer remarked, "you have to be in pretty good shape."

★★ SPORTLITES ★★

By Kerry Slagle

Back in 1906, the forward pass became a legitimate way to advance a football without punning or kicking it.

Although it wasn't employed right away, through many years of perfecting, the airways are now filled with practically as many footballs as particles of air pollution.

Combine a strong aerial attack with a Bucky Owens-type ground game and football becomes a diversified sport.

But, let's forget about history and diversity for a while and talk about the kicking game in football. Whether the kicking is done by a bare-foot Hawaiian, an English soccer player or a 300-pound Polak, it is fast becoming a gimmick for winning the game of games.

Two weeks ago, Mickey Thompson's field goal gave NWMSC a 24-21 victory over Kirksville in the Battle of the Hickory Stick. Saturday, Cape Girardeau's John Null booted a 43-yard goal to give the Indians a 24-21 victory over the Bearcats.

In other football circles over the weekend, field goals played major parts in winning, also. Craig Kessler kicked a game-winning field goal for Oklahoma State, Bill Bates' three-pointer gave Missouri the incentive to comeback and tie Iowa State, and to top it off

Roger Schlegel who prove very stingy in giving up yardage.

The Bearcats will try to improve their 2-4 record while Springfield holds a 4-2 slate.

Charlie Gogolak's four field helped Washington upset the St. Louis Cardinals in the NFL Sunday afternoon.

According to statistics released by the MIAA last week, one of the top scorers was a kicking specialist. In the NFL, Lou "The Toe" Groza holds the all-time scoring record, and Paul Hornung broke the old season scoring record for one season not only on touchdowns but on extra points and our good friend the field goal.

With facts like this to exemplify the importance of kicking, the good ole foot has more applications than just walking or smelling.

More than field goal kicking must be considered, for kick-offs and punts play an integral role, also.

Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma clubs of the last decade were famous for quick huddles. But remember that surprise third-down quick kick which usually resulted in tragedy for opposing teams?

On fourth-down kicking situation, things are not as bad as they seem, for with a strong punt the ball may land in poor field position for the receiving offense. That is, unless the receiving offense has a pseudo Joe Spinello.

On the kick-off, a long kick into the end zone might prevent a runback and present an offensive problem that can be easily solved by a good defense.

So, to make a long story short, two good feet in hand are better than one in the mouth.
